

The republicans will not lose the field in 1884 if the democrats can help it.

Every man is his own boss in the republican party. This has kept the party in power over twenty years.

It is frequently an easy matter to recognize a St. Louis girl who has "mysteriously disappeared" from the size of her foot.

Oscar Wilde wrote a play for Mary Anderson, but of course Mary Anderson wouldn't take it. Mary doesn't deal in trash.

The "boom" for Vilas for vice president doesn't seem to prosper. All the booms for the democratic party run the wrong way for that party this year.

If the West Point military academy turns out many more defectors and thieves, the name will have to be changed to correspond to the practice of that institution.

It is hoped by every republican in good standing that Henry L. Pierce will be nominated for governor of Massachusetts. Ben Butler would not then serve another term.

It is said that the Villard excursionists will visit Milwaukee on their return from Oregon. The first section of that party will be able to get away with a good deal of beer.

If any one knows of two prominent men of either party who have not been mentioned as a "winning ticket" for 1884 they should be brought out and placed in the grand army of candidates.

The scheme which the democrats of Ohio had in hand to carry that state has been abandoned. They have concluded to fight each other instead of the republican party, to which the republicans do not object.

It is said that Dr. H. Webster Jones, of Chicago, who gave up a practice worth $80,000 a year for another man's wife and eloped with her to Australia, is a grand son of Noah Webster, the author of Webster's dictionary.

Says the New York Post, "The independent vote is the thinking vote." But that kind of an "independent" vote generally "thinks" to vote with the democrats. It is only independent as a disguise, and not a principle.

It is more than probable that the Greeley Arctic expedition party are lost. The government should hasten to send out another party among the perpetual icebergs. What is the value of human life anyway, compared with exploring the ice-berg region?

The New York Tribune suggests John L. Sullivan, of Massachusetts, and Paddy Ryan, of Illinois, as a strong ticket. As the democrats believe in fighting each other, there are good reasons why this pugilistic couple should be put in the field.

The total circulation of coin and paper money in the United States now amounts to $1,575,104,642. Assuming the total population to be 52,000,000, the amount per capita would be $30.29. France has about $44 per capita and Great Britain about $28, but in the United States money is more evenly distributed than in either of those countries.

Wednesday the 10th instant has been set apart by the Milwaukee exposition managers as the special accommodation of the editors. Invitations have been sent out to all editors in the state, and doubtless a very large majority of them will accept. A grand banquet will be spread in the exposition building at three o'clock in the afternoon expressly for the editorial fraternity.

The annual election of officers of the State Agricultural society was held in the senate chamber, in the capitol, on Thursday evening, with the following result:

President—N. D. Pratt, of Racine.
Secretary—G. B. Babitt, of Beloit.
Treasurer—Cyrus Miner, of Janesville.
Additional members of the executive committee were chosen as follows: Orris Pratt, Walworth; A. O. Fox, Oregon; T. L. Newton, Beaver Dam; J. A. Eaton, Lodi; A. A. Arnold, Galesville; J. T. Kingston, Madison; J. S. Stekney, Watons.

Wendell Phillips is as changeable as a weather-vane. He has deserted Governor Butler, and has given the green-back party the cold shoulder. With the coming of every year Mr. Phillips has new and strange ideas of labor and money, and when he finds that he is making himself ridiculous in one direction, he abandons them only to find that the older he grows the more capricious is his mind. He is the most brilliant orator and one of the greatest champions of liberty this country has produced, but his ideas are as unsteady as the wind.

The New York Sun, which is very industrious in searching for democratic candidates for 1884, prints a list which includes Thomas F. Bayard, of Delaware; Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts; Roswell P. Flower, of New York; Abram S. Hewitt, of New York; Allen G. Taurman, of Ohio; Thomas A. Hendricks, of Indiana; William S. Holman, of Indiana; Joseph E. McDonald, of Indiana; John M. Palmer, of Illinois; and Samuel J. Randall, of Pennsylvania. This list shows that the Sun doesn't intend to fluid all the candidates. It has omitted the name of Samuel J. Tilden, the gentleman who lives at Gramercy Park. The Sun is a mischievous democratic paper. It sets on democrat while it sorathes another democrat on the back. It sets to warring the different factions of the party, and then holds them for fighting. The republican party made quite an important gain when it lost Dana, of the Sun, and the democratic party was crippled when it found him.

The State Journal says there was a confidential and a close-door meeting of some of the leaders of Wisconsin bourbonism, at the Park hotel Wednesday night, and that among those present were Dr. W. A. Anderson, of LaCrosse, the state chairman of the party; John S. George, of Milwaukee, a well-known chieftain; ex-Congressman Samuel D. Burchard, of Beaver Dam; N. D. Pratt, of Racine, president of the state agricultural society; Colonel Wm. F. Vilas, the Madison war-horse; Congressman Burr W. Jones, also of this city; Clinton Babbitt, of Beloit, secretary of the state fair; Assemblyman Kennedy, of Iowa county, and his brother, the ex-sergeant-at-arms of the lower house, besides other and lesser lights. The gathering was of the close-communication order, but it is presumed that the object was to strengthen the Vilas vice-presidential boom, and lay the pipes for capturing the Norwegian vote, which Colonel Vilas declared the other day to be the only barrier between democracy and perfect success in Wisconsin, in 1884. It will be a very cold day when the democracy succeeds in capturing the Norwegian republicans.

MARTIN LUTHER.

Celebration of the Quatre Centenary of His Birth at Wittenberg, Germany.

WITTENBERG, Sept. 14.—At the celebration of the four hundredth anniversary of Martin Luther's birth splendid weather prevailed, and the commemoration was a great success. The journey of the Augustinian monastery was flanked by Venetian masks. Colossal busts of Luther and Melancthon were placed on the balcony of the town hall and on stands throughout the city. The emperor's bust, in front of the town hall, was decorated with flowers. Portraits of Luther and Melancthon in his sayings and writings were displayed in many windows. The number of visitors is estimated at 50,000. They came principally from Thuringia, Saxony and Brandenburg. Delegates from Hungary, Austria and France took part in the celebration. On arriving at Wittenberg the crown prince Frederick William, with Prince Albrecht and Herr von Gossler, minister of ecclesiastical affairs, drove direct to the Stadt Kirche and attended divine service. Over 1,000 clergymen filled the church. After reading the liturgy, Supr. Gen. Schuler delivered the festival sermon, taking his text from St. Matthew, chapter xxi., verses 42 and 43. The royal party then proceeded to Schloss Kirche, where the crown prince placed a splendid laurel wreath upon Luther's grave. The party afterward inspected the archives in the town hall relating to the reformation. Meanwhile the long procession marched to Luther's house, where the crown prince subsequently, in the large hall which served formerly as Luther's lecture-room, delivered the Luther hall speech. In his address the crown prince said: "May this festival serve as a holy exhortation to uphold the great benefits of the reformation, and to strengthen the evangelical belief, liberty of conscience, and religious toleration. May Luther's anniversary help to strengthen the Protestant feeling, preserve the German Evangelical church from disunion, and lay the foundation of everlasting peace." Lectures on the life and work of Luther were delivered in the afternoon, while the evening was devoted to banquets and festive gatherings.

Wittenberg was profusely decorated. The crown prince Frederick William was received with great enthusiasm. There were 2,000 clergymen present. The emperor William issued a cabinet order intrusting to the crown prince Frederick William the duty of representing him at the festival. The emperor, as chief depository of the government of the church in his empire, expresses a feeling of warm interest in the celebration, in which evangelized faith obtains full expression.

A PECULIAR CORPSE

Which Is Not Dead, But Refuses to Live.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 14.—Mrs. L. B. Conant, of Summerset, died Sunday, Sept. 9, after an illness of two weeks. Her funeral was announced for Monday at 10 a. m., and the undertaker, in consequence, was on hand at the appointed time, but indications of life were not extinct and the funeral was postponed until Tuesday. Monday afternoon the cover of her coffin was raised for the purpose of bathing her face with the usual antiseptic preparation, when it was discovered that the glass on the inside was covered with something similar to steam or sweat. She was immediately taken from her coffin and blankets placed around her in the hope she might be restored to life. Her ears were pierced, and the blood would come as free as if she were alive. It was suggested that a test be made in the way of blistering, as it is claimed by the best medical authority that a blister cannot be raised unless there be a circulation of the blood. Nevertheless, the blister came, in this instance. Monday night passed in about the same manner as the afternoon. Tuesday morning, at the appointed hour, the undertaker came and the funeral was again postponed. Tuesday forenoon the color would come back to the face of the apparently dead woman, and her cheeks would be red. Then she would turn pale and death-like. The bleeding ceased about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, but up to this time her life is perfectly moist, and her wrists and finger joints are as supple as ever, and no swelling or decomposition whatever can be noticed.

THE ICE KING'S CLUTCH.

Disastrous Failure of a Polar Expedition.

The Greeley Relief Steamer Proteus Crushed in the Ice—Intense Sufferings of the Men—Greeley's Fortunate Hope.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 14.—The signal office has received the following from Lieut. Garlington, commanding the Greeley relief expedition:

"ST. JOHNS, N. F., Sept. 14.—It is my painful duty to report the total failure of the expedition. The Proteus was crushed in a pack in latitude 78 degrees 22 minutes, longitude 74 degrees 22 minutes, and sunk on the morning of July 23. My party and the crew of the ship were all saved. I made my way across Smith sound and along the eastern shore of Cape York, thence across Melville bay to Upernivik, arriving there Aug. 24. The Yantic rescued Upernivik Sept. 3, and left the same day, bringing the entire party here to-day. All are well.

E. A. GARLINGTON.
Sept. 14.—The first officer of the Proteus fully summarizes the ill-fated Proteus expedition as follows: "The Yantic and Proteus left St. John's at 4 p. m. on June 29. The Proteus arrived at God Haven bay, Disco island, July 6. The Yantic arrived at the same place on the 12th. Necessary preparations were made, and the Proteus sailed for Cory island, arriving on the 16th. She left on the 21st, and two days afterward was crushed, sinking at 7 p. m. on July 23. Twenty-nine days were spent in boats. Several storms were encountered, from which the boats took refuge under the lee of icebergs. Lieut. Colwell and six of the crew parted company with the others at Cape York, found the Yantic on July 11, and reported to Capt. Pike that the remainder of the crew were moving southward. The Yantic reached Cory island Aug. 2. The same night she proceeded to Pandora harbor, where a record from Pike and Garlington was found. She next proceeded south along the Greenland coast, sending boats all round the islands in search of the missing crew. The storm and heavy pack ice of August 9 forced the Yantic to anchor to leeward of Northumberland island. Next day she bore away for Upernivik, arriving there August 12. On the 27th she started for the Waigatze coal mines, and returned to Upernivik September 2. Capt. Pike and the crew were found and taken on board the Yantic.

It seems that the first intimation of the Proteus disaster was found August 3 at Litten island by the Yantic. Lieut. Garlington, on his way south, when passing south, describing the shipwreck and indicating the general movement of Capt. Pike and the ship's company. On the 4th search was instituted along the Greenland coast from Cape Alexandria to Cape Robertson. Every party likely to bring up with the retreating party was searched till September 3, when Upernivik was reached, and the whole Proteus party found in good health and tolerable spirits. They were exposed thirty-one days and nights in their boats, making some stoppage at intermediate harbors. The Proteus was crushed in ice on July 23, and within four hours as the does parted company. Fortunately sufficient time was given to get ashore, provisions, compass and other necessities to meet what might prove a protracted voyage. On the 25th, boats having been equipped, provisioned and manned, a start was made. The scene of the disaster was eight miles north-northwest of Cape Sabine, latitude 79 degrees 51 minutes north. Over six hundred miles of ice and frigid seas were passed before Upernivik was reached. The survivors of the expedition, from the expedition is that no provisions were landed or catches made, and all the stores intended for the Arctic colony relief went down in the steamer.

While at anchor in Danish harbor, Aug. 12, Gov. Erling came on board the Yantic and reported that the Danish steamer Sophia had arrived there from a harbor thirty miles north of Cape York, and the captain stated that an Esquimaux told him two natives with the Greeley expedition arrived on sledges last winter, and reported the party all well except Dr. Pavy, who had died. These natives went back to Lady Franklin bay. Another Esquimaux arriving from Greeley's camp reported that all the officers were murdered by the men. Neither of these reports is reliable, as the fondness of the Esquimaux for lying and sensational tales is well known. The story of the Esquimaux is that Capt. Pike was that as far north as Cape Sabine there was no trace of Greeley or his party, and his failure to come south to Litten island to meet a relief steamer this summer evokes grave apprehension as to his probable fate. The Proteus was retreating home when the ice-ship overwhelmed her. She got barely fifteen miles north of the scene of the shipwreck. The prospects of the Greeley colony are now the rigors of a fourth winter beneath the Arctic circle are mournful to contemplate. The crews of both the Yantic and Proteus are in excellent health. One death only occurred during the expedition—that of Henry Wilson, the gunner's mate of the Yantic, of apoplexy.

Lieut. Greeley was placed in command of an expedition to establish a permanent station at the most suitable point north of the eighty-first parallel and contiguous to the coal seam discovered near Lady Franklin bay by the English expedition in 1875. The instructions directed that the steamer, on arriving at the permanent station, discharge her cargo and return to St. John's; that after the departure of the vessel the energies of the party should first be devoted to the erection of the dwelling house and observatory; that the sledging parties should work generally in the interests of exploration and discovery. Provision was made for the dispatch of relief expeditions, and it was further provided that "if not visited in 1883, Lieut. Greeley will abandon his station not later than Sept. 1, 1883, and will retreat southward by boat, following closely the east coast of Greenland, until the relieving vessel is met or Litten island is reached." This is the difficult part of the business, and the failure of the present expedition has made the question of Greeley's ability to reach home extremely problematical. The country to be traversed is a terrible one. Very little food can be transported across it with the party, and in one part of the road Dr. Hayes was thirty-nine days going thirty miles. Indeed, the country is almost impassable. However, those best posted as to the difficulties and the provisions made for overcoming them, think there is still room to hope.

WASHINGTON CITY, Sept. 14.—Gons (Graham, Leggett, McArthur, Balknap, Hendricks, Tuttle, and Sanders, all of whom had commands connected with Crocker's Iowa brigade of the 18th corps, have accepted invitations to attend the reunion at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Sept. 25 and 27. The brigade lost over 1,100 officers and men in the war. Capt. H. H. Kool, of Mount Vernon, Iowa, is secretary.

A GRANDMOTHER'S CRIME.

Causing the Death of Her Daughter's Illegitimate Babe.

SHENLEYVILLE, Ill., Sept. 14.—The coroner was called to hold an inquest at the residence of Mrs. Mary Quigley, living twelve miles northeast of this city, on the dead body of an infant. The inquest brought out the following facts: The child was the illegitimate offspring of Lucinda Quigley, daughter of Mrs. Mary Quigley, and was born Thursday morning. The grandmother is alleged to have requested Mrs. Fetterow, who was assisting her, to cause the child to be killed, as she did not want it to live. The young mother placed in vain the child to death, but was prevented from doing so by Mrs. Fetterow, who took the child away and laid it on a bed. Next morning, when Mrs. Fetterow returned to see the baby, she found that it had been buried. Knowing that all was not right, she sent word to the coroner, who went out and assisted the old lady to show him where it was buried. She showed him a postboard box, covered by about six inches of dirt. On examination the jury returned a verdict to the effect that the child came to its death by violence, having its head mashed in, and that it is their belief that the deed was committed by Mrs. Mary Quigley. The state's attorney will order the arrest of the old lady, in which they live. The author of the young girl's ruin is a man living in Windsor township.

The Oriole Festival.
BALTIMORE, Sept. 11.—The city is turned over to Lord Baltimore, amid the screaming of whistles and the clanging of bells. The mystic pageant was pronounced a grand success by the assembled thousands. The pageant was divided into parts, the first and by far the more interesting being Atlantis, the lost continent, and the other the lost kingdom, being based upon Washington Irving's legends of Spain and the conquest of Granada. In this there were forty-two floats in two divisions. The first representing the mythological legends of the first king and queen of Atlantis.

A Juvenile Elopement.
EKLHART, Ind., Sept. 14.—A sensational elopement has occurred here. The parties were Miss Alice Brannan, 16 years old, and Erastus Bowman, also a minor. The girl's parents were opposed to the match, but the lovers outwitted them, went to White River, Mich., and were married. They were not permitted to come home, so they staid at night at a friend's. During the night the young bride's clothing and marriage certificate disappeared, and she had to borrow a dress. Her parents say the couple must start in life on their own hook.

POLITICAL MATTERS.

New Jersey Democratic Convention
--A Lack of Harmony--
Politics in Iowa.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 14.—The Democratic state convention assembled at 12:30. Allen C. McDermott was selected as temporary chairman, and the secretaries and usual committees were then appointed, after which a recess was taken until 2:30 p. m. On resuming the session, the convention was made permanent chairman, and the committee on resolutions reported, and nominations for governor were made. The first ballot resulted: Abbott, 218; Andrew Albright, 189; J. S. Whitaker, 116; Charles Hendrickson, 47; Lewis Cochran, 44; Augustus W. Cutler, 43; Black, 31; A. A. Hays, 29; 9; Chancellor Runyon, 27. The second ballot necessary to a choice, 317. It was impossible to begin until the votes as they were cast. This began to turn in favor of Abbott, however, and soon the chairman declared Abbott the choice of the convention. There was the wildest confusion. The Albright men "jumped" on their seats, and the convention was in a state of confusion. A nomination and declared that the convention was in a state of confusion. A nomination and declared that the convention was in a state of confusion. A nomination and declared that the convention was in a state of confusion.

IOWA ITEMS.
IOWA FALLS, Sept. 14.—Hon. William H. Bates, of Jacksonville, Ill., spoke here to a large audience. He devoted his time chiefly to a discussion of the tariff. He quoted from the platform of the Republicans of 1874 that party had been in favor of a revenue tariff. He said that the Republican press of this state has been in the habit of extolling revenue reform. He cited Senator Grimes, who, he said, was the brainiest man in the senate from the northwest, as a vigorous opponent of the doctrine that industry can be supported by taxing it. He referred to the tariff as a "tax on the people."

KEOSAUQUO, Iowa, Sept. 14.—An immense conference meeting was held here. Hon. M. E. Bennett, editor of The Kansas Prohibitionist, and a former politician of this county, was expected to address the people, but, failing to make railway connections, he did not get here. His place was filled by local speakers.

CONVENT. BLUFFS, Iowa, Sept. 14.—The Republicans have put a full prohibition legislative ticket into the field. George Cusson, of this city, was nominated for state senator. He voted for submission to a constitutional convention. F. W. Davis, of Avoca, was nominated for representative in Clay county township, and E. W. Davis, of Avoca, also a member of the house four years ago, was voted for submission, and Davis, who is a banker, is an avowed prohibitionist. William Grosvenor, a German business man of this city, for senator, and George A. P. Cramer, of The Avoca Herald, for the house. All are license men.

MISSOURI, Iowa, Sept. 14.—The announcement has been made by the Democratic state central committee that Hon. William R. Morrison, of Illinois, Hon. J. B. Baer, of Illinois, and L. E. Fawcett, of Mount Pleasant, will run for the stump for Kansas. Morrison vs. Gould.

THE SAGE OF GREYSTONE Gets Away With Gould at Yachting.
New York, Sept. 14.—On her usual trip up the Hudson, the stationary yacht of the Yacht Club, the "Yosemite," has for some time been existing between these yachts, and a race was being in good earnest. For several miles the race was even, but by and by the "Yosemite" forged ahead of Grey, and the "Yosemite" was seen to be ahead of Grey. One of the "Yosemite" men, tested at 120 pounds, and during the race was allowed to say to 110 pounds. Mr. Tilden onjoyed the excitement of the race, but was not aware of the fact that he was running. Mr. Gould, on the other hand, was running. Mr. Gould, on the other hand, was running. Mr. Gould, on the other hand, was running.

THE PENNSYLVANIA Trouble.
HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 14.—The Republican senate has adopted a resolution providing for the election of a new speaker, and Friday, with a view to driving the Democrats of the house from the purpose to remain in session until the passage of the congressional and legislative appropriation bills, the Democratic senators are retreating from voting and thus preventing a quorum. Without the pairs present, the house will have less than a quorum, but the chair decided that senators paired and present, and who answered to their names and senators whose names were attached to a quorum. In this manner the resolution was passed.

SUPPOSED SUICIDE.
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 14.—The body of the wife of Paul Hankin was found on the beach near the West Jersey pier. The body was clothed in a night dress, and had the appearance of having been in the water only a few hours. Mrs. Hankin, who arrived here a few days ago from Washington, was a highly respected lady. It is believed that she committed suicide, owing to domestic troubles.

WHY SO DOWNCAST.
True, you are in a miserable condition—you are weak, timid and nervous. You cannot sleep, night, nor enjoy your waking hours; yet why lose heart? Get at the cause, and you will find it. Get at the cause, and you will find it. Get at the cause, and you will find it.

SOUTHERN LABOR.

A Grandson of John C. Calhoun Tells What He Knows About It.
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—John C. Calhoun, of South Carolina, grandson of the famous statesman of the same name, and who is now a resident of Arkansas, was a witness before the senate committee on education, and was called to testify in regard to the conditions of labor in the South.

He stated that since 1820 he had been engaged in cotton-raising in Arkansas, and had abundant opportunities for observing the condition of labor at the south. The negroes in the Mississippi valley were entirely agricultural. Few white men were employed, as they soon became either land owners or tenants.

The condition of the negroes was good as compared with a few years ago. There were three methods of employing laborers for wages, working on shares, and as tenants. The large farmer, besides furnishing the laborers with shelter, food and other advantages, divided the gross proceeds of the crop between his employees. Under this system, the negroes were not to be considered as laborers, but as partners in the enterprise.

VICTORIOUS GUARDS.

They Score One at Rockford. Dividing First and Second Money.

And Win a Glorious Victory at Woodstock.

Their Return Home and Reception Last Evening by the Bower City Rifles.

Once more has our "crack" military company shown itself a credit to our city, and worthy of the title, "Pride of the First Regiment."

Four times since the organization of the company, the Janesville Guards have taken part in competitive drills, and each time the first honors together with a handsome purse, has been bestowed upon the gallant boys in blue and grey. The history of the Guards in competitive drill, so conspicuously commenced at Janesville in 1879, and so handsomely continued at Milwaukee in 1880, has had added to it a brilliant page, recording a splendid success at Rockford and a glorious triumph at Woodstock on Wednesday and Thursday last.

The Guards left home on Wednesday morning at 7 a. m. going to Harvard, where to their surprise they found a special train awaiting them. This was very pleasant to the boys as the company arrived at Rockford at 9:30 a. m. instead of 2:10 p. m. as was expected. Upon their arrival they were met by Captain Lawrence of the Rockford Rifles who said that the Forrest City band and both the Rockford companies had made arrangements to meet the Guards at the afternoon trial, and did not know of their early arrival. The Guards were as usual splendidly entertained by the Rifles, their baggage was taken to the armory, where coats and blankets were already prepared for the Janesville boys, use for the night. After a short time spent in salutations the Guards marched to the fair ground where they indulged in an hour's drill preparatory to the afternoon's contest. Dinner was furnished by the fair association and was fully enjoyed.

At two o'clock the drill commenced, the Rockford Greys drilling first, followed by the Janesville Guards, the Rockford Rifles coming last. The drill was from a programme prepared by the judges, which was handed to each captain fifteen minutes before he was called upon to drill. The judges were Major Elliot Durand, of Chicago, and Captain H. A. Smith, of Rockford. General Braxton, of Rockford, was expected to act as a third judge but was unexpectedly called away.

The Rockford Greys did some very good drilling, but being a new company lacked the steadiness and precision necessary to success.

When the Guards marched on the ground, they were received with cheers, and were frequently applauded during the execution of the programme. The drilling was very fine, though here and there a little nervousness was apparent, owing, probably, to the fact that half a dozen of the men had never been in a competitive drill before. They finished their programme, however, in good style. The Rockford Rifles then drilled, exhibiting much of their old excellence; as is apparent from the fact that when the judges finished comparing notes, they were unable to decide whether the Rifles or Guards were entitled to the first prize, as they had marked the same number of errors against each. First and second money, $125 and $120 was, therefore, divided between the two. Third money, $50 was awarded to the Rockford Greys. Immediately after the decision the president of the society, directed to Captain Glass the money his company had won, and the Guards were then escorted to the armory by both the Rockford companies. The next morning at 5:30 a. m. the Guards took the cars for Woodstock for another contest, arriving at 9:30. They were quartered in the armory of the Woodstock company as were also the Custer Rifles, of Whitewater. In the afternoon the drill took place upon the fair grounds, the Elgin Guards Captain Smith, drilling first. This company exhibited great nervousness and lack of precision, while the position, movements and commands of the officers were at times quite irregular. Next came the Custer Rifles, and when our boys saw the precision of their movements, the exactness of their steps, and the efficiency of their officers, they realized that there was work ahead of them if the first prize was to go to Janesville. Next came the Woodstock company, officers and men presented a fine appearance, and in the manual or arms this company is hard to beat, but in marching they lack that steadiness of time for which our Guards are famous. Still it was with compressed lips and fire in their eyes that the Janesville boys marched on the ground, for they realized that there was a contest indeed, and that they must do much better than they had the day before or experience their first defeat. At the sound of the bugle the company marched on the drill ground "company front" in single rank, and as it moved across the ground a distance of fully twenty rods without a waver in the line, every man, hand, belt and feather exactly in the right place, the spectators realized for the first time what was a perfect line, and an involuntary cheer went up from thousands of delighted people. From that time on the boys fairly outdid themselves, executing movement after movement with a precision and dash that few among the spectators had ever seen equaled. Applause was frequent and hearty but most uproarious when the fringes kneeling, lying down and "by file" were executed. Before many minutes it was a forgone conclusion that the Janesville Guards had won first prize, and upon the conclusion of the drill they were heartily congratulated by all the soldiers present and by many others.

The judges were General C. P. Chapman, adjutant general of Wisconsin; Major Elliot Durand, 1st regiment I. N. G., and Captain Bennett, of Joliet, adjutant of the 4th regiment I. N. G.

The first prize, $150, was awarded to the Janesville Guards; the second, $50, to the Custer Rifles, of Whitewater; the third, $45, to the Woodstock company; and the fourth, $35, to the Elgin Guards.

The boys came home last evening at 8:30, and were met at the depot by the Bower City Rifles, under Captain LaGrange, and by a crowd of enthusiastic friends.

General Chapman spent a few hours in the city last evening, and complimented Captain Glass and his company very highly indeed, especially mentioning the soldierly appearance of the men, the efficiency of their commander, and their accuracy in drill. Captain Glass may well be proud of his company, the boys may well be proud of their captain, and Janesville may well be proud of having beyond a doubt the finest military company to be found in the northwest.

The drill squad of the Guards was as follows:
Captain—C. F. Glass.

Death of Little Laura Schickler.
For the third time within a few years the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Schickler, of the second ward, has been thrown into deep mourning, over the loss of a darling child. Last evening at seven o'clock, the silent messenger of death entered the family circle and claimed their little daughter Laura, aged nine years, as the victim. The deceased had partly recovered from a severe attack of scarlet fever, so that she was able to be about the house, until Tuesday last, when she was suddenly taken worse, and after great suffering, she finally passed away at 7 o'clock last evening. The heartbroken parents have the sympathy of a large circle of intimate friends in their sad bereavement.

The funeral service will be held at the German Lutheran church, on Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, Rev. Mr. Schlarf officiating.

Another Burglary.
The residence of Mr. James K. Bliss, 61 Lynn street, fourth ward, was entered by burglars last evening. They succeeded in obtaining the sum of two hundred and twenty-five dollars, mostly in large bills, and made their escape unnoticed. The first intimation Mr. Bliss had that his house had been entered by burglars, was when he awoke at daylight this morning. He had placed his pants, containing three pocket books, under his pillow when he retired. The pocket books contained a little over two hundred dollars in money. When he got out of bed he discovered that his pants had been removed, and so informed his wife. He then went into an adjoining room to procure another pair, which he put on and then went out to look after his horses. His wife dressed herself and stepped out the front yard. She soon found the pants in the yard of Mr. Nichols two doors north, emptied of their contents, excepting a little key, which, if the thieves had secured when in the house, and taken a little more time, might have found more "booty." The money taken was mostly in large bills, one $50, four $20's, several $10's and some gold and silver.

The burglars gained an entrance through a kitchen window, and by the aid of a light which had been left burning, easily found their way to Mr. Bliss' bed room. Mr. Bliss last night went to sleep on the back side of the bed, and the burglars were compelled to pass through a very narrow passage way at the foot of the bed to get at his pants. A loaded revolver and gold watch were in plain view but were not taken. As yet there is no clue to the thieves.

Mr. Bliss often has considerable money in his possession, as he is in the habit of paying all freight bills of his customers at the depot, and then collects after delivery the goods, and is often in the possession of quite a sum of money after banking hours, and this happened to be the case last evening.

Sherer & Co. drug store. Large size $1.00.

Matrimonial—A Surprise.

HASSELLSON-CALLISON AND SCHULTZ-STONE.

On Tuesday noon, Sept. 11th, 1883, at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. George W. Hasselgren and Miss Maggie (Idell), youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Callison, all of Lima, Rock county, Wis., were united in marriage by Rev. G. W. Lawrence, of Janesville, in the presence of numerous invited guests. Then came a surprise, the revelation of a secret known only to the officiating clergyman and two other friends. After Mr. Hasselgren and Miss Callison had been united by the nuptial knot, at a given signal Mr. W. D. Schultz and Miss Eva L. Stone, of Whitewater, came forward, and before the guests had recovered from their surprise at this unexpected movement, Mr. Lawrence had completed the ceremony whereby Mr. Schultz and Miss Stone were joined in matrimonial bonds. The occasion was a very pleasant one, and the beautiful dinner every way acceptable. Mr. and Mrs. Hasselgren were the recipients of valuable presents, while the surprising bride and bridegroom were probably quite content each in the possession of the other.

GARDNER-THOMPSON.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wyley, in the town of Fulton, on the evening of September 11, 1883, by Rev. W. O. Whitford, of Milton, Mr. William F. Gardner and Miss Louisa S. Thompson were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock, the ceremony being performed in the presence of a very large assemblage of intimate friends of the happy couple. Miss Hattie Hubbell and Miss Edna Shawson acted as first and second bridesmaids, and Messrs. James Thompson and John Thompson as groomsmen. A beautiful wedding feast was served to the guests, and the occasion was one long to be remembered by those present. The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful presents from her friends.

The Blind Institute.

The full term of school at the Wisconsin institution for the education of the blind opened on Wednesday, September 12th. Fifty-four pupils were in attendance on the first day, that number will be greatly increased by new arrivals coming in each day. This state institution, under the superintendency of Mrs. S. C. Little, has gained a national reputation, and under the popular and efficient management of the present corps of teachers is steadily increasing in popular favor, and now stands in the front rank of institutions of this class in the United States. The present corps of teachers are:

Superintendent and steward—Mrs. Thomas H. Little.

Matron—Miss Lizzie J. Curtis.

Teachers in literary department—Miss S. A. Watson, Miss E. M. Williams, Miss L. M. Steinko.

Teachers in musical department—N. C. Underhill, Mrs. J. H. Jones.

Teachers in industrial department—Miss A. E. McKibben, Mrs. E. D. Hanson, Joseph O. Preston.

CHARLES SKINS.

For the Firemen.

The members of the fire department met in the west side engine house last evening, in answer to the call of Mayor St. John, for the purpose of selecting a suitable person to succeed to the office of chief of the department vice T. T. Croft, resigned, and for filling any other vacancies which might occur. The meeting was a large and harmonious one, all the officers being filled by acclamation. First Assistant Engineer James Foster, was chosen as chief; Second Assistant Thomas Mahon, as first assistant; and Mr. A. W. Bateman, the present foreman of engine company No. 1, as second assistant. The members of the department have elected their best men, and the common council will undoubtedly ratify the recommendations on Monday evening.

OTHER FIRE MATTERS.

Invitations were received in this city yesterday from the Beloit committee, to attend the tournament in that city on September 21st. The rules adopted by the Beloit committee are of the "iron clad" order, and will exclude 99 out of 100 companies which might attend. Section one of the rules for the government of local companies reads:

"None but regular organized hose companies who have been recognized as such for at least thirty days previous to the tournament, can contest for prizes, and no person shall be allowed to run with any company who has not been a member of such company, and who has not been a resident of, or living within one mile of the city, town or village, in which said company belongs at least thirty days previous to the tournament."

This rule will kill the race. It is doubtful if the Beloit company, which has been in practice all summer, can run in full compliance. In this city, it is well known that our hose companies consist of eleven men, a majority of whom are good only in a long race, and would be of no account in a 300 yard run—they could not get warmed up. The rule bars the company from taking in outsiders, even members of another company, therefore we think the Beloit tournament will be a kind of a failure. At the same time the above rule was adopted, we understand that Beloit's fancy team commenced picking and are still picking men from their entire department, and for all we know Rock and Winnebago companies are being secured to find feet-footed men to put in their team, and yet 30 days membership and iron rules are thrown into their invitations to visiting companies.

Perhaps, Mr. Simon Smith, the chairman of the arrangements, can explain. It is a matter of doubt about the attendance of any of the Janesville companies, as participants in the race.
